

ILLEGIB

Grace Weakley, Hawk pitcher, lets go on the mound, left. Below, Dobie Holmes, Georgetown Big Brother third baseman, dances at the plate. Bottom, Lou Negri makes like Yogi.

Rosemary Leopold of Condors, below, leads off third. At bottom, Ed Fowler of Georgetown Big Brothers releases the pitch. Georgetown club has never been lower than second in its league.

The Deft Touch of

SOFTBALL

SANDLOT ballet, it's called, or, if you like, the Softball Sashay. The important thing is to demonstrate a certain fluidity of motion in the left field while, say, catching a fly. Save the pas de trois for sliding into home.

At least that's how the art appears to be practiced by the four teams represented on these pages: the D. C. Recreation Department's Hawks and Condors (ornithologists take note), both for women; the Georgetown Big Brothers and the Rising Sun Hotel team of Reading, Pa.

25 YEAR RE-REVIEW

Virginia Renecke, first baseman for Hawks, clings to field during Condor inning below. Women's softball teams play at softball diamonds at 23rd st. nw. end of Mall. The girls say they love the game.

They're but a part of the hundreds of softball teams taking to the big diamond this time of year throughout the city.

The fancy footwork comes naturally. "Play ball!" means having a ball. Maybe Broadway can set it to music.

Setting sun looks on Connie Moore, Condor catcher as she tries hard not to strike out. At bottom, Lucy Hightshoe of Condors steals second while Lois Jones of Hawks waits for ball. Six women's teams participate in D. C. Recreation Department Softball Division League No. 6.

